A Will today for wildlife tomorrow

Remembering us in your Will leaves a lasting legacy that helps secure the future of precious wildlife, habitats and landscapes for future generations to come.

A forever gift

Every gift, whether large or small, counts. At Derbyshire Wildlife Trust we've been dedicated to looking after Derbyshire, its landscapes, habitats and inhabitants, for over 50 years. You can be assured that every penny you choose to leave in our care will be well invested for the future.

In 1973 a bequest from Miss Mandahl of Sheffield changed the Trust forever as it allowed us to employ our first member of staff and we haven't looked back since. Legacies provide us with a vital source of income. Once you have remembered your loved ones in your Will, please consider leaving us a legacy. This will ensure that we can continue protecting the county's wildlife, now and well into the future.

Legacies have made a real and important difference

Legacies have allowed us to extend some of Derbyshire's most beautiful nature reserves such as Gang Mine, Hartington and Erewash Meadows, enabling us to preserve species rich grassland on the White Peak plateau, protect lead tolerant plants and save an area of floodplain grasslands. In fact, our first ever nature reserve, Overdale was purchased using a legacy.

It's not all about land purchases though, legacies have also allowed us to introduce thousands of children to the joys of nature and remind thousands of adults to stop and take a look.

I think it is vitally important to preserve places like the Trust's reserves where all kinds of wildlife can flourish undisturbed; and to take children there and give them some insight into the natural world, and above all to experience the wonder of it. This world gives and has given me as much delight as anything in my life, and I'm pleased to think of giving to it after my death.
